

Fidelity BANK

Today is a proud day for Northeastern Pennsylvania, the City of Scranton and of course, Fidelity Bank. On behalf of the Board of Directors, I am proud to announce today the Bank's commitment to moving its corporate headquarters to the Scranton Electric Building. Fidelity Bank is making a $17 million investment in the restoration of Scranton's first skyscraper, returning it to its former glory, and preserving it for generations to come.

Erected in 1896 to commemorate Scranton's status as one of the first cities in the country to become electrified, today this landmark building is being re-energized as a symbol of the city's renaissance. With its iconic sign that lights the night sky over the city, the building symbolizes growth, innovation, and the vitality of the people who live in Northeastern Pennsylvania. We believe this location allows Fidelity to have the greatest positive impact on the regional economy, as well as the sustainability of downtown Scranton.

About more than just a building, moving the corporate headquarters to the Scranton Electric Building signifies the Bank's long-term commitment to the region, and those individuals, families, and businesses it serves. The Bank believes strongly that it has a responsibility to help improve the economy, generate growth, and contribute to Scranton's ongoing revitalization. The relocation of a corporate headquarters to the Scranton Electric Building will bring more than 100 workers, job opportunities, and revenue growth to the downtown. The building will consist of offices, as well as a branch and Wealth Management center. Further, consolidating operations downtown will have a multiplier effect, bringing new opportunity to the city's businesses, restaurants, stores, and service providers.

As a community bank for over 120 years, Fidelity and its Bankers know that a strong community and a strong community bank go hand-in-hand. I am honored to have this opportunity, and to do our part to make the places in which we live, work, play and pray, the very best they can be.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Santaniello
President and Chief Executive Officer
